Basic Windows Workshop

Annapolis, MD (June 29, 2011) – Need help or practice in getting started in Windows-based computing and would like some personal coaching and information? Then “Basic Windows Computer Skill and Knowledge” workshops may be for you.

The free series starts at 11:30 a.m. July 13 in the Computer Room at the O’Malley Senior Activity Center, 1275 Odenton Road, Odenton, and will be held on Wednesdays through mid-September where you can learn and practice with the help of an instructor. The workshops include a few short “lectures,” lots of practice and review, and a very informal environment with no pressure. The workshops are for beginners only.

For information, call the center at 410-222-6227.
