Comments

"This is an outstanding presentation! Ms. Nilsson and Ms. Houck skillfully help my students develop and internalize concepts of care, responsibility and respect towards animals. Many thanks for making this program available. Keep up the excellent work!"

Teacher, Harmans Elementary School

"Candi's programs are consistently engaging, high quality, informative, entertaining, touching ... perfect for middle school audiences. We love having her."

Teacher, Brooklyn Lindale Middle School

"This program is outstanding! Ms. Nilsson and Ms. Houck have such a wonderful rapport with the children. The knowledge passed on was extremely important ..."

Teacher, Millersville Elementary School

"Candi and Rosemarie did a great job of introducing the children to the animals and sensitizing them to their needs. I hope you continue to offer this programming. I know I will want to have Candi and Rosemarie back again later in the year."

The primary goal of Humane Education is to help young people develop a system of humane ethics that will enable them to determine appropriate and inappropriate behavior towards animals and each other.

Anne Arundel County Animal Control has Humane Educators who travel to all points of the county explaining basic animal safety and care. Sharing the love of animals also includes awareness of animal overpopulation and the reason for neutering and spaying.

Humane Educators provide films, pet care booklets, videos, classroom games and instructional materials which are free of charge and includes presentations with live animals.
